

You have been spotted by a talent scout.

You have made the national team.

You have to quit school to train full time.

You got caught using drugs, and you've been kicked off the team.

You've been traded to an English team.

You have won the World Cup.

You will have to leave your family behind to train full time. You won't see your children.

You've broken your leg and can never play again.
